PoE wireless monitoring without a PoE switch

Overview

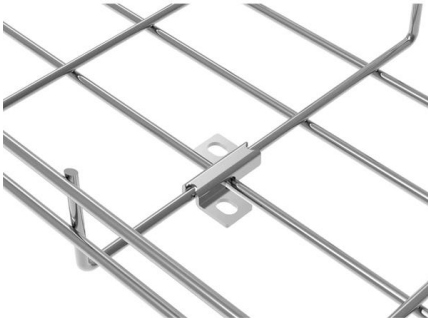

Transform your wired PoE camera into a wireless powerhouse by using a PoE-to-WiFi adapter or connecting it through a wireless bridge—no complex rewiring needed. This simple, cost-effective solution lets you connect your camera directly to a non-PoE router or switch while maintaining full functionality. What Are PoE Cameras?

Power over Ethernet (PoE) cameras are security cameras that receive. Let's dive in now to maximize your security setup without the need for an NVR! What Are. With high-speed data up to 1GB per second, you can get your videos and live recordings miles away from your IP camera. In theory could you run 100+ Reolink PoE cameras all recording locally to individual microSD cards instead of using an NVR?

reason I ask is because if they all had to store live footage back to the NVR all the time then that creates a lot of traffic on the network and potentially would create a lot.
