Ukrainian optical cable kilometers

Overview

Ukrtelecom's optical network has expanded to over 80,000 kilometres of fibre optic cables, which is twice the circumference of our planet (the length of the Earth's equator is 40,075,696 metres). Over that period, the company connected hundreds of healthcare and educational institutions to optical lines and enabled hundreds of thousands of households in all regions of the country to start. Halting the use of fibre-optic drones for the sake of "environmental friendliness" would be absurd, but mine clearance experts are already assessing the risks they. The demand for high-quality fibre optics is growing every year, and the requirements for reliability, bandwidth and delivery speed are evolving along with it. Data from early 2026 confirms that Ukraine has emerged as a key consumption hub for optical fiber. The length of constructed UTEX cables is 70% of the total length of Ukrainian roads. It is used for high-speed transmission of information over long distances: in Internet networks.
