What quota is applied to the fiber optic cable for the terminal box

Overview

Presumably most people are confused about this, then let's take a look at how the fiber optic splice closure is set, as follows: The fiber optic splice closure is the same as the quota, only the VV4*240+1*120 cable application setting sub-unit price requirement *1. (FOA) was founded in 1995 to help develop the workforce to build the fiber optic networks to support a rapid expansion in communications and the Internet. It includes first determining the type of communication system (s) which will be carried over the network, the geographic layout (premises, campus, outside. What is the Fiber Termination Box?

Fiber termination box (FTB), also known as optical terminal box (OTB), generally refers to a distribution box specially designed for fiber cable management (fiber patch cables/pigtails) in FTTH applications. People usually use it to connect patch cables from the splitter to the indoor cables, meeting the demands for high-speed bandwidth. In short, the terminal box is the last structured node of the Fiber Optic System before service touches the subscriber. A typical PON topology (GPON, XGS-PON, or 25G PON) flows OLT → fiber distribution hub → passive splitters → distribution/drop fibers → premises.
